Historical Data:

The present house was built by Amos Hewlings in 1797 on what was then a 1200 acre farm. When Amos Hewlings died in 1862, he divided the 1200 acres among his children. His home with one hundred and twenty-four acres was given to his son Jacob. It remained in the Hewlings family until it was sold by the trustees, Camden Safe Deposit and Trust Company, in 1933 to the present owner.
